Soon after the arrival of evacuees from the Stockton and Santa Anita assembly centers, the location for a canteen, west of the administration buildings was selected by Ray D. Johnston, Project director.

Six nisei, Ko Kiyomura, Sam Funamura, Frank Nishikawa, Gary Nagai, Hideo Ito and Tom Hayakawa, were appointed as the Co-op committee. This committee appointed the following issei to form the advisory board: Hideo Muto, Yoichi Agari, Juichi Fujimori, Jinsuke Kanegaye, Kinnosuke Ikezoe and Juzo Nishio. These 12 men, with the authority of Johnston, then chose 6 men from among themselves as the Board of Trustees.

Johnston borrowed $150 from the McGehee Bank to which he added $100 of his own. He recommended the Rohwer Co-op to many commercial houses both in and outside the state and arranged for credit which was necessary for merchandising.

September 24, 1942, was the day on which the canteen was first opened to the public. Since then, six months have elapsed.

The Co-op now has a membership of approximately four thousand, $16,200 in merchandise stock, $8,200 cash in the bank, and such branch additions as dry goods store, shoe repair shop and mail order unit. Barber shop, beauty parlor, dry cleaning-laundry agency and radio-watch repair shop will be assembled within a certain block as soon as the plans to inaugurate them are completed.

In comparison to other center co-ops which set membership fees from one share at $5 to a limit of twenty shares per person, the Rohwer fee is $1 and each member is limited to one share apiece. As a result, Rohwer's shares total a little less than $4000 in contrast to $25,000 and up of other center co-ops.

CURTAINS: NOW GRACES JOHNSTON'S DEN

Curtains woven from government surplus thread by the weaving class may now be seen gracing the windows in Project Director Ray D. Johnston's office in ad building 1.

Previously, the curtains were on display at an exhibit held last January in PS hall 26. Early intentions were to use them for the visitors' room. As this was not done, someone suggested them for Johnston's office, and the ladies agreed wholeheartedly.

The lining was bought by his secretary, Edna A. Miller, and Adelene Lee, director of arts and crafts.

Upon completion, they were put up last week.

SIGN-UP BEGINS FOR CRAFT CLASS

KEEPING POSTED

Another topflight National league quintet will fall on the wayside tomorrow in the scorching home-stretch when the high scoring Los Angeles Bojangles and the star-studded Gaels match basket for basket to see who stays in the thick of the championship race.

With a setback apiece against them already, another defeat for either five will mean finis as far as the title is concerned, so tomorrow's gigantic battle is expected to have another touch of those nerve-wracking photo-finishes, a la Hollywood style.

Boasting a plus 50 points average for seven tilts, the Bojangles, if they come anywhere near that sensational scoring record, should be on the triumphant end after the smoke has cleared away tomorrow evening.

It was this same Bojangle team that ruined the Gaels' 1943 cage debut with a resounding 36-20 win and if Tosh Ihara, Sam Nakamoto and company can duplicate this early season feat, they will have a clear road to at least a tie for the league crown, providing they knock over their last opponent, the Hawthorne Y's, next week and that should be a cinch victory.

--oOo--

Coach John Shimakawa's charges must show a better brand of cage playing than what they displayed last week in the disastrous Royal Dukes' game if they are to be a championship contender. With every one of their players a potential high scorer, the Gaels can make it hot and sizzling for the LA Bojangles once they get rolling.

--oOo--

The sports section suffered a total defeat this week when it lost its star reporters, Thomas Nakamura and Jiro "Cho" Aratani. These two experienced writers were indispensable to whatever success the OUTPOST sports department claimed and will be sorely missed when the

GAELS CLASH WITH BOJANGLES IN TEST VANDALS PLAY CARDINALS

With all eyes focused on the Bojangle-Gael crucial tomorrow, fans are apt to forget that a brace of fine games are being played today. The Gaels should take the Hawthorne Y's without very much trouble on Court 1 at 2 p.m. in a breather.

On Court 2 at the same time, the powerful Royal Dukes face the scrappy Green Horns quintet.

In the best game of the afternoon, the Cards match buckets with the rugged, fast-breaking Vandals. The Cards reign as slight favorites, but anything can happen to this game.

With a chance for at least a tie for the National league championship at stake, the Los Angeles Bojangles and the Stockton Gaels will meet in a bitter battle which should prove to be one of the hardest games of the season. Tip-off time is 3:30 p.m.

The Bojangles will rely on the scoring power of dead-eye Tosh Ihara and Jackson Nakamoto while the Gaels will bank on smooth Kiyo Shimasaki and the team's height for victory.

The A-Jays play the Hawthornes and Lodi faces Mr. Smiths at 2 p.m. These games should be a breather for Lodi and the A-Jays, but anything can happen.

Weightlifting Exhibition

The Center's second weightlifting exhibition will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the high school field. The affair, sponsored by the Rohrer Vikings, will be a Three Olympics lift exhibition contest and promises to be something worth watching.

The contest is an inter-club affair and will boast fourteen outstanding lifters who will display the strength and technique of this ancient sport.

The lifters are Joe and Teiji Chino, Sam Furuya, George Iida, Hiro Okada, Isao Nakahira, Vio Matsui, Shig Shiroishi, Harry Kunishima, Hideo Morinaka, Hiro Watanabe, and Mits Yamasaki.

As an added attraction, Yas Kuzuhara of Granada, Colo., will take part as a guest lifter.

SPINNERS MEET PREPS SUNDAY

The undefeated Spinners, who are the heavy choice to walk off with the Girls' Basketball league championship, will aim for their third straight victory tomorrow when they meet the Preps on the high school field from 2:30 p.m. Preliminary will see the Sub-Debs and Block 5 matching baskets.

In today's feature cage bill, Block 2 plays Block 7 and Block 13 tangles with Block 28 sextette at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m., respectively.

Redondo Thumps Wrecks 9-1

Showing rare early season form by chalking up 11 K's, hurler Sam Iida led the Redondo Bombers to a 9-1 near shutout victory over the Rambling Wrecks Thursday. Hisa Nakahira, Bomber's first sacker, enjoyed a perfect day at bat with a homer, two triples and a double on four tries.

heavy spring and summer sports coverage arrives.

Both were colorful writers: Nakamura was the top sports reporter during his sojourn at Lodi High on the Flames, while Aratani did his journalistic scribbling in Los Angeles. The latter is leaving the Center Monday for Gila. The former left for University of Michigan.

EDITORIAL PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

With the emphasis placed upon mutual cooperation and goodwill, the structural organization of the Center has been molded into a workable pattern during the past six months.

This was made possible because the 4362 workers have considered community welfare more important than their individual selves.

With this in mind, they have and are spending their days in full-time employment.

However, in recent weeks criticisms and comments concerning the growth of private enterprise in the Center have come up. It is said that private instruction in various phases of handicraft and set charges for personal services are being made, which are netting the principals incomes twice or thrice the WPA wages.

The setting of specific charges for instruction or services is unfair and should be discouraged if not entirely eliminated, because:

(1) If private returns are greater than WPA pay, it would be unfair to the workers.

(2) Such private businesses open the way for more individual undertakings which may undermine the Center's co-operative structure.

(3) Often private instructors demand sizable sums which are entirely out of line with the pay that the people are making here.

(4) Employment can be found for these instructors on the government pay roll.

(5) WPA administrative instructions state that no evacuee may establish and manage any industries of private nature.
